

One time, we had a bird in our house. When we opened the door, it flew right in. Everything got crazy! The bird was flying all over, my mom was yelling, my sister was running around crying, my dad was chasing it with a broom. Finally, it flew out. Whew! We could relax. And so could the bird.