

As I was walking, I heard a small voice. I looked all around. “Down here!” said the voice. And there by my foot was the smallest person ever. Two inches tall. I bent down and picked him up and he stood on my hand. “Who are you?” I asked.